Maines and Zarillo Plead to Charges

Sentence Will Be Imposed Wednesday in County Court by Cashin

Two defendants entered pleas of guilty Monday afternoon in County Court before Judge John Cashin and imposition of sentence was postponed until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Bernard Maines of Kingston, who was charged by the grand jury with forgery, second degree, alleged to have taken place last October 10 when he forged the name of a Milton man to a check, changed a former plea of innocent to the forgery charge to guilty to plea for Charles Gaffney appeared for Maines. The plea was accepted by the Court and Maines was remanded to custody of Sheriff Smith until Wednesday when sentence will be imposed.

Nicholas Zarillo of Poughkeepsie charged with third degree burglary for the entering of the Van Gonsie garage at New Paltz on October 10 entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry, the second count in the indictment. Harry Gold appeared for Zarillo and asked that the first count be dismissed. Judge Cashin reserved decision on that motion until after sentence Zarillo will be sentenced Wednesday. He was remanded to jail.

Moses David Tompkins, Poughkeepsie, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry to a building appeared in court for assignment of counsel. Robert Ortale was assigned and the case put over until January 23.

Theodore Van Keuren of Arkville charged with forgery, second degree, said he was unable to secure counsel and asked the court to assign counsel. Judge Cashin assigned Harry Gold.

That case went over to January 23.

Ely Junius Allen, Town of Marlborough, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, also sought assignment of counsel and Charles Gaffney was assigned. Allen said he had been working on the Woolley farm at the time of the incident. The case was put over to January 23.

Milton Kenneth Marjory, Jr., Saugerties charged with grand larceny, first degree, for the taking of a car, also asked for counsel and William A. Kueverth was assigned. The case went over to January 23.

On the call of the remaining cases on the criminal calendar, several were marked for January 16, others at later dates.

Mark Newgardner, Saugerties, and Charles Rothe, Jr., appeared for arraignment under an indictment which charged the two with grand larceny, first degree, arising out of the theft of a county owned tractor mower last August 21. The grand jury recommended the two be treated under the Youthful Offender statute. N. LeVan Haver appeared for Newgardner and Haver said he had been working on the Woolley farm at the time of the incident. The case was put over to January 23.

On the call of the remaining cases on the criminal calendar, several were marked for January 16, others at later dates.

Senate Gives Final Approval, Goes to Dewey for Signature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—A stopgap bill to "legalize" New York city's court-killed local rent control law until May 1 was approved today by the Senate and sent to Governor Dewey.

Dewey was expected to sign the measure shortly.

Previously, he had urged the legislature to validate the city's Sherkey rent control law, which freezes rents as of last March 1, regardless of federally approved increases.

The Senate vote was 37-12.

The Assembly approved the measure last night, 133-9, but the Senate adjourned before the larger house had acted.

The Assembly passed the validating bill despite "grave doubts" as to its constitutionality, expressed by the measure's Republican sponsor, G. O. P. Assemblyman D. M. Stephens.

In the Senate, Republican Walter J. Mahoney called for approval of the bill to "save the tenants of New York city" from what he called the "confusion and ineptitude" of the Democratic city and Democratic national administrations.

Pointing to the stopgap nature of the validating measure, Mahoney said the Republican state administration would submit before adjournment an effective rent control program.

The Democratic minority leader, Elmer H. Quinn, blamed the Dewey administration for the present situation. He said the Democrats repeatedly had urged a special session of the legislature last fall, before the Sherkey law was passed, to meet the problem presented by what he described as the easing of federal rent restrictions.

Nine Republicans and three Democratic senators voted against the bill.

The Democrats were: John M. Riva, J. R. Richmond, James E. Fitzgerald, St. Albans, and Frank D. O'Connor, Jackson Heights.

Dissenting Republicans: Floyd E. Anderson, Binghamton; Austin W. Erwin, Genesee; Paul D. Graves, Gouverneur; Chauncey E. Hammond, Elmira; S. Wentworth Horton, Freeport; Macbeth Mitchell, Manhattan; Walter W. Stokes, Cooperstown; Walter Van Wiggeren, Ilion; and Pliny W. Williamson, Catskills.

Up for approval or disapproval is a New York city plan to tap the Hudson river for 100,000,000 gallons daily to meet any emergency in the metropolitan fight against a water shortage.

Local authorities here have opposed the plan, saying it would damage the Poughkeepsie water supply.

The State Water Power and Control Commission meets here today to hear both sides, and pass on the proposal.

New York city's Board of Estimate already has approved the project, and appropriated $1,500-

Twin Moves Would Stop John Lewis

One Resolution Asks Truman Invoke His Emergency Powers to End 3-Day Week

Would Apply Laws

Senate Committee Asked to Apply Anti-Trust Statutes

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Twin moves shaped up in Congress today to provide new legal tools for dealing with John L. Lewis.

One was a resolution due to be introduced by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) asking President Truman to invoke his emergency powers under the Taft-Hartley Law to end the present three-day coal mining week.

The other was the suggestion by Senator Robertson (D-Va.) that the Senate Banking Committee sponsor a move to apply the anti-trust laws to labor unions. This was to be discussed by the committee today.

Lewis, meanwhile, stuck to his position that mine owners sign on his United Mine Workers' terms. Those are a 95-cent daily wage boost for miners now receiving $14.05 and a 15-cent increase in the present 20-cent tonnage royalty for the miners' welfare fund.

Most of the coal operators have balked at these demands as too costly. Their fight with Lewis over agreeing on a new contract has been getting hotter since the old pact expired last July 1.

Neither President Truman nor Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations board, showed any signs of acting on separate demands that they seek court injunctions to force miners back on a five-day week.

Miners now are working on a three-day week on U.M.W. President Lewis' instructions. It is admitted a pressure move to achieve the union's goals. An exception is the 30,000 miners in seven states who went out on strike yesterday.

The coal diggers abandoning the three-day week for a no-day week for the present are groups employed by steel company mines and the big Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Alabama, Virginia and Utah.

As Senator Robertson prepared to outline his anti-trust proposal to the Senate Banking Committee, its chairman, Senator Maybank (D-S.C.), said he was personally in favor of the idea.

Robertson wants the banking committee to send his proposal to the Judiciary Committee with a recommendation that that committee hold hearings and push the idea to a Senate vote. Basically, Robertson wants labor unions placed "on a par with corporations."

Apartment Burns In Poughkeepsie; Damage $200,000

A three-alarm fire, which burned out most of the upper part of the Patterson apartment building in Poughkeepsie early today, drew Ulster county units into action under the mutual aid plan.

The Highland fire department was called across the river to join units from Arlington and Fairview in covering Poughkeepsie fire stations which were emptied by the three-alarm call, and Milton covered for Highland.

Central station here received the mutual aid call at 4:28 P.M. Poughkeepsie Fire Chief Irving D. Merrick said damage would approach $200,000.

The blaze of undetermined origin started in a penthouse of the building.

Wicks Undergoes Physical Checkup

Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks of the State Senate is undergoing a physical check-up at Rochester, Minn.

The Kingston Republican will return here late this week, his office at Albany said.

Senator Pliny W. Williamson, veteran Westchester Republican, will be acting leader during Wicks' absence, according to the Associated Press.

Wicks was elected majority leader at the close of last year's session. He succeeded Benjamin F. Feinberg who resigned his Senate seat to become chairman of the State Public Service Commission.

Kent Gives Papers Before American Zoological Society

Scientist Is Preparing Comparative Anatomy Volume; Works in Louisiana

GEORGE C. KENT

Dr. George C. Kent, formerly of Kingston and Hurley, who has become widely known in the scientific world, recently gave a paper concerning his work before the American Society of Zoologists in New York city. The meeting was held in conjunction with the American Society for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Kent, who directs graduate study in the field of mammalian reproduction at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La., is a member of the council of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, representing the Louisiana Academy of Science.

In collaboration with his colleagues at the university, Dr. Kent is engaged in the long term study of the hormones responsible for cyclic periodic mating in animals and determination of the portion of the brain responsible for the willingness for the animal to mate. The group conducts experiments with Syrian hamsters (toy bears), which Dr. Kent reports are rapidly replacing the Guinea pig for routine clinical and experimental work on small mammals.

Through the experiments the scientists have discovered what Dr. Kent terms "devious effects ranging from relieving temporarily the effects of arthritis to building a bodily tolerance to high altitude flying and to working along with hormones of the sex glands in controlling the chemistry of the body related to reproduction."

Dr. Kent's work at the university has been widely known since 1942. He has written scores of papers in national scientific journals and is the author of a textbook, Vertebrate Zoology. He is writing another book, Comparative Anatomy, for a large eastern publishing house. Dr. Kent is editor of the scientific journal published by the Louisiana Academy of Science. The experimental work is supported in part by research grants from the American Association for the Advancement of Science and from other sources.

A graduate of Kingston High School in 1932, Dr. Kent says, "K.H.S. is one of the finest high schools in the country and one of which the people should be proud and to which I am very grateful. I never had any difficulty whatsoever."

Savings Shout Grows In Congress; Some Say It's Nothing but Talk

Gambling Has Place as Hot New York Item

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Gambling popped up today as a hot political and moral issue in New York state after Mayor William O'Dwyer's proposal that betting on sports contests be legalized and supervised by the state.

Chances for adoption of the proposal were viewed as dim at the State Capitol at Albany where several members of the Republican legislative majority voiced opposition.

The mayor's suggestion, however, gave rise to spirited discussion in many quarters.

Some hailed the suggestion as practical horse-sense, in the view of realities. Others condemned state-licensed betting as a threat to the public's morals.

Still others including the leaders of the sporting world—remained guardedly non-committal on the potentially hot political issue.

Some of the forerunners stemmed from one of society's oldest ethical questions—the virtue or inequity of the game of chance.

But the big factor—says the New York city mayor—is this: Enforcement of present anti-gambling laws is onerously expensive and, furthermore, virtually impossible because thousands of people want to bet, and do—even though it's against the law.

Will Ask Action

In his surprise statement yesterday, O'Dwyer said he would ask the State Legislature for "courageous and sensible" action to legalize sports betting and put it under strict state control.

This, he said, would bring book-making out from underground and drive the "criminal element" out of gambling, much as the repeal of Prohibition purged the liquor trade of crime and violence.

At present, only two states in the nation—Idaho and Nevada—have legal commercialized gambling, in varying forms, according to the Council of State Governments.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declined immediate comment, but State Assemblyman D. Malloy Stephens, Republican chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, ridiculed the Democratic mayor's proposal.

"He can't take care of it (gambling) in the city," Stephens said, "and he wants the state to do it."

Some Democrats, however, expressed approval of the plan. Two of them said they would back measures to give municipalities the option of legalizing gambling.

Freezing Rain Is Traffic Hazard

No Major Accidents Occur During Early Condition; Hearing Delayed

A freezing rain early today impeded traffic in this area for a short time, but most county highways were clear of ice by mid-morning, when the temperature rose above the freezing point.

No accidents or major traffic tie-ups were reported to state police posts in the county.

North of Catskill, however, ice-glazed highways slowed traffic to about 10 miles an hour and icy conditions were reported to be still existing early this afternoon.

Slippery conditions reported near Kingston apparently existed only momentarily before 8 a. m. and no official reports of motorist difficulties were received by police offices.

Unofficially, however, several individuals confirmed a report that Route 28 was very slippery, especially on the hill east of West Hurley.

Pine Hill Bus Corporation drivers said Route 28 was "pretty slippery" from West Hurley to Kingston early today, but had cleared up by mid-morning.

Two US Destroyers Join Flying Arrow To Provide Escort

Will Take Vessel to Port Other Than Shanghai; Boat Hit by Many Chinese Shells

Aboard the Flying Arrow, Jan. 10 (AP)—Two American destroyers were alongside the shell battered freighter Flying Arrow tonight ready to escort her to any port but Communist Shanghai.

They arrived in midafternoon. They are the Stickle and Bausell. Lt. (jg.) C. L. Stuart of Chico, Calif., who boarded the freighter from the Stickle, said escort would be provided to any port but the ship's destination, Shanghai.

In the distance lurked a Chinese gunboat at dusk. It was the only other vessel in sight, although other Chinese Nationalist warships had been visible during the day.

The ship was hit by 30 to 40 Nationalist gunboat shells in international waters yesterday. She was about 20 miles off the Chinese mainland when the attack started.

Her master, Capt. David Jones, 31, of Chicago, says the shells hit rendered her unseaworthy. He asked for U. S. naval escort to the nearest port for repairs.

That port is Shanghai, where the Isbrandtsen Line freighter was bound with a general cargo worth $10,000,000, Chinese Nationalist sources said.

Officials Announce Thefts' Solution; Specific Count Is Lodged

The sheriff's office and the Kingston Police Department claimed the solution to a recent series of burglaries with the arrest Monday afternoon of two Kingston men and a minor boy.

The two men arrested were William Van Vliet, 28, of 79 Chambers street, and George J. Schryver, Jr., 19, of 48 St. James street, the sheriff's department said. Also arrested was a Saugerties youth under the age of 16, whose name was withheld.

They were charged specifically with the burglary early Sunday morning of the Hudson Valley Diner on the By-Pass just outside the city line. Sheriff's department investigators accused the trio of forcing entrance into the diner, which is owned by George Morehead, and taking approximately $100 worth of food and money. The money was obtained by breaking two pinball machines, the sheriff's office alleged.

Arraigned on charges of burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry before Justice of the Peace Percy Bush of the town of Ulster, the two men waived examination and were ordered held for grand jury action. The boy is also being held for Children's Court action, Justice Bush said.

The arrests resulted from co-operative investigation by sheriff's men and city police department detective of a number of entries and thefts, the sheriff's department said.

Tanks, Cars Put on Vessel For Formosa

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—Ninety cartons of tanks and armored cars consigned to the Chinese government at Formosa were loaded aboard a Turkish freighter at a Philadelphia pier today.

Officials of the Reading Company disclosed that the tanks and cars were transported over Reading lines from "somewhere in Ohio" to a pier along the Delaware river in Port Richmond, located in the Northeastern section of Philadelphia.

Loading was begun this morning aboard the 8,677-ton freighter, S. S. Mardin, owned by Maria T. A. S. of Istanbul, Turkey.

Agents for the ship, B. H. Sobelman Co., Inc., said the ship would depart next week. The agents declined to give detailed information on the consignment, stating an agreement with the Turkish company prohibits release of any news reports to the press.

Negro, Shot, Gasp Out Story Of Massacre, Attack Attempt

Kosciusko, Miss., Jan. 10 (AP)—A critically wounded Negro early today gasped out a story that three white men massacred three members of his family attempting to rape his 14-year-old stepdaughter.

The two Whitts and Turner came to his home late Sunday night.

Turner told Harris he was going to have Harris' stepdaughter "or we're going to kill the whole damn bunch."

He marched Harris into the kitchen while one Whitt stood guard at the front door and the other at the back. Turner shot Harris in the back and then went into the bedroom where he killed three children: Frankie C. Thurman, 10, Mary Bumside, 8, and Ruby Nell Harris, 4. The relationship of the children to Harris was not disclosed.

Tax Boosts Not Heard At Present

Sentiment Seems to Run Other Way; Deficit Might Be Bigger Than Predicted

Postal Bill Okayed Rates Increase Receives House Okay, Smaller One in Senate

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—A congressional economy clamor grew louder today around President Truman's $42,000,000,000 out-of-balance budget.

Nearly all the senators and House members were saying openly or behind their hands that spending will be too high, the deficit will be too big and they ought to get out the ax and go to work on the budget.

Yet in years past all that talk of economy in January often has turned out to be still just that in June—still just talk. And some lawmakers are aware that this year's economy campaign also could turn out to be more talk than action.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) summed up that point of anticipating a deficit. "It is going to be difficult to pare it any in this election year. We may be able to make some reduction but not to any great extent."

Nor were there any loud calls for a hefty tax increase, or even for the "moderate" one Mr. Truman keeps asking for. A tax boost would help but not some of the $5,333,000,000 in red ink that's in prospect for the year starting next July 1.

Sentiment seemed to be running the other way, toward a cut in taxes, if anything.

Furthermore, it looked as if that $5,333,000,000 deficit might be bigger than Mr. Truman counted on. He based his estimate partly on an idea that Congress would up mild rates by $395,000,000.

If Congress fails to provide part or all of the increase, the deficit will go up by just that much.

A bill to raise postal rates by $131,000,000 has been okayed by a House committee, while a $113,000,000 bill has been approved by a Senate committee. But lawmakers say they expect trouble in getting either one all the way through Congress.

The deficit is the gap between the $42,439,000,000 spending and $37,306,000,000 in income Mr. Truman estimated for the government in the coming fiscal year.

The new figures compare with $42,297,000,000 of expenditures, $37,763,000,000 of revenue and a deficit of $5,534,000,000 for the present year closing next June 30.

Once more, the biggest item in the new budget is around $18,000,000,000 for national defense and international affairs to keep America and her allies strong in the cold war against Russia. Defense accounts for $13,500,000,000 of that total.

Then there is $12,500,000,000 for programs at home—more help for the old folks and unemployed, price supports for farm products, and the Truman "Fair Deal" plan.

Some congressmen are saying the President had better not bank on getting some of the newer parts of his program—like health insurance. Pigeonholing them is one way they could trim the spending proposed in the budget.

For the most part, Democrats were silent on the budget. They had a good word for it when a reporter asked for it. Republicans were quick to seize the opportunity for criticism.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Your public housekeeping is going to be done with red ink for another year at least. Many persons, in business as well as in government, appear to take it for granted.

A few die-hards still think that Uncle Sam should make income and outgo balance. But even most businessmen are reconciled to deficit financing as the only way to fight the cold war. Their quarrel with President Truman is over the amount of red ink needed.

The President says that this year the Treasury will run $3½ billion behind, and seems to think it will have to run at least $5 billion more behind the coming year.

A group of influential businessmen calling themselves the Committee for Economic Development thinks Uncle Sam could cut down on some expenses and run only $2½ billion in the red.

Deficit financing has become almost an accepted part of many people's thinking. The nation has run in the red for 18 out of the last 20 years. The debt has piled up and up.

After a brief period of falling at the end of the war, the debt has started up again and is now around $257 billion. On that the government is paying out about $5.7 billion in interest this year.

The President's ideas as to how much more the government should spend than it collects from you in taxes is before Congress today.

Let's look at what some business groups have proposed as a way of financial life for the government.

Clamor grows around the country for lower taxes, less spending. Wherever you travel, on plane, train or bus, your seat companion is apt to talk about the tax burden and the spending that clings to higher and higher. Each one has an idea where the government could save. Usually the saving would be along some line that doesn't affect the individual's own region or community, or his own line of business.

The C.E.D. tackles the problem from a nationwide view. This group was formed during the war by many of the nation's leading industrialists and businessmen to devise ways to ease private business back into peacetime pursuits without disrupting the nation's economy and without widespread unemployment. Since reconversion days the C.E.D. has continued to study the nation's business and economic problems.

Its ideas on the budget are that the government should trim $2½ billion from the nation's tax bill. It wants excise taxes, mainly the wartime levies on luxury goods, trimmed by $1 billion, and the rest to come from a reduction in the double taxation on corporation earnings, first, there are: an income tax on the corporation's earnings themselves, and second, a personal income tax on the dividends the stockholders receive.

Then C.E.D. admits the government to cut $3½ billion from its expenditures. These businessmen think Marshall Plan aid could be reduced by $1 billion, that another $650 million could be saved on what Uncle Sam spends on helping occupied areas of its defeated foes, that another $300 million could be saved on defense spending here at home.

C.E.D. thinks veterans' benefits are $800 million more than they need be, the government's financing of home mortgages $650 million higher than necessary, and that the government's housekeeping activities cost $200 to $400 million more than is justified.

But when you add it all up you find the C.E.D. admits the treasury has to go $2½ billion further into the red. Not that the C.E.D. thinks this is good practice; it just thinks it can't be helped this year.

And it thinks that some of the deficit could be financed but not by borrowing from the banks, but by using the big surplus which the government's various trust funds will run up. These include the old age insurance, unemployment insurance, federal employees retirement, and veterans' life insurance programs. These funds will probably take in this year more than they are called upon to spend.

If the treasury borrows $3 billion from these trust funds, the amount of its securities held by individuals, banks and insurance companies would be cut. The government would just be owing itself instead.

Some business organizations have come out flatly for balancing the budget by cutting expenditures sharply until they fit tax receipts. But few observers think Congress will do that.

Anyway you look at it, the treasury seems sure to be further in debt a year from now than it is now—in other words, so will you. Because you own, or should own, the government.

WATER AND DOLLARS

Water and dollars carry an economic threat to America. It is an intriguing situation: a falling water supply in the world's leading city and an expanding dollar supply out of Washington presently are sources of trouble.

When the huge New York city water supply dams are full—those at Schoharie, Ashokan and Croton—they hold 270,000,000 gallons. In normal times nobody ever thinks about water. When the spillways are active, water waste is common. Fountains in the city are open wide. Two hundred and seventy billion gallons are enough for everybody, everything.

Now it is interesting to note that for every gallon of water in New York city's reservoirs (when they are filled) there is about a dollar's debt at Washington. Today, however, the water is low—an emergency is on. One Friday all men were asked not to shave or to take a bath. As I write, New York's water supply has dwindled to about 88 billion gallons—one-third the normal supply.

The governor of New York, the acting mayor of New York city and other officials have had a long and serious meeting about this situation. They looked ahead into 1951 and 1952 and started charting a course that may remedy the situation.

Yes, a scarcity of water in this great city has many people worried. Here is the Atlantic Ocean at our feet and the Hudson river right within our bosom. Yet, the water shortage carries an economic threat to the well-being of millions of people. Imagine—surrounded by water—our governor and acting mayor call a conference because of a lack of it.

Dripping faucets, letting water run while shaving, taking shower baths that last too long, careless washing of dishes, and of clothes—all of these are "out" during the present water shortage.

What a lesson there is in the New York city water situation for the fiscal authorities in Washington! As I have said previously, the dams upstate hold a gallon of water for every dollar of debt contracted at the capital city. But water is vanishing; and the dollar debt growing. With 88 billion gallons of water and a federal debt of 257 billion of dollars, there are $2.90 of debt for every gallon of water.

And while New York city's supply grows less, Washington's dollar supply increases about $14,000,000 daily on the average. This is inflation.

Water emergency meetings are held. How about a debt-growing meeting? How about turning off the leaky dollar faucets, curtailing the measures that cost billions of dollars that help to pauperize people and tightening up the spending that is causing unbalanced budgets?

Ex-Ghost Writer For Truman Is Working for Dewey

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—A former ghost writer or President Truman went to work today for Governor Dewey's administration.

John F. Carter, Jr. magazine writer, radio commentator and newspaper columnist last night was appointed Director of Publications Relations in the State Publicity Department, a unit of the State Commerce Department.

During the 1948 presidential campaign when Dewey was the GOP nominee, Carter helped write many of Mr. Truman's speeches. Carter also wrote a syndicated column, "We The People."

under the pen name of Jay Franklin.

Harold Keller, state commerce commissioner, told a reporter that "it appears from his (Carter's) column in recent years that he has changed his mind about his past political sympathies."

"Carter wasn't picked because of any political connections or considerations. He was picked for a job," Keller asserted.

Carter's $8,000-a-year post was created recently as a clearing house for publications seeking information on New York state.

Faye Emerson to Stay In Mexico for While

Cuernavaca, Mexico, Jan. 10 (AP)—Faye Emerson has finished the legal requirements for her divorce from Elliott Roosevelt but she is staying on, she said, "because I like Mexico."

The New York actress signed her divorce petition yesterday in a cracked-wall courtroom in the Morales State Penitentiary, which is also the civil court. Then she gave a big smile to shirt-sleeved Judge Alfonso Roqueri Tilde who said:

"If I had known who was coming I would have worn a coat."

The divorce is expected to be granted within eight days, but Miss Emerson's personal appearance finished her part in it. Guillermo Tamayo, lawyer for the son of the late president, will be notified formally tomorrow of the petition. He will appear in court to confirm that it is uncontested and the decree will be prepared.

Miss Emerson does not have to remain to receive the decree. But she said she would stay in Cuernavaca awhile—that she did not know when she would return to New York. At a news conference after the informal court hearing, she also said she has no plans to get married again.

Five Stores Fined

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—Pleading no contest to charges they conspired to fix prices in violation of anti-trust laws, five of Philadelphia's largest department stores were fined $2,500 each in U. S. District Court. Judge Guy K. Bard, however, suspended penalties on individual officers of the five stores, also named in the indictment yesterday. The jurist said he was influenced in his decision by the fact that the price-fixing practice had been discontinued and that store officials had cooperated with government investigators. Named in the federal grand jury indictment and fined were Lit Brothers, N. Snellenburg & Co., Inc., Strawbridge & Clothier, John Wanamaker of Philadelphia and Gimbel Brothers.

Sale of Autos Is

Hanned on Sundays

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—The sale of automobiles on Sunday is banned by a new regulation announced today by the State Motor Vehicle Bureau.

Commissioner Clifford J. Fletcher said the ban applied to sale of all motor vehicles, motorcycles and trailers.

The licenses of dealers violating the regulation may be revoked or suspended, Fletcher said. He added that a majority of the dealers in the state had advocated the regulation.

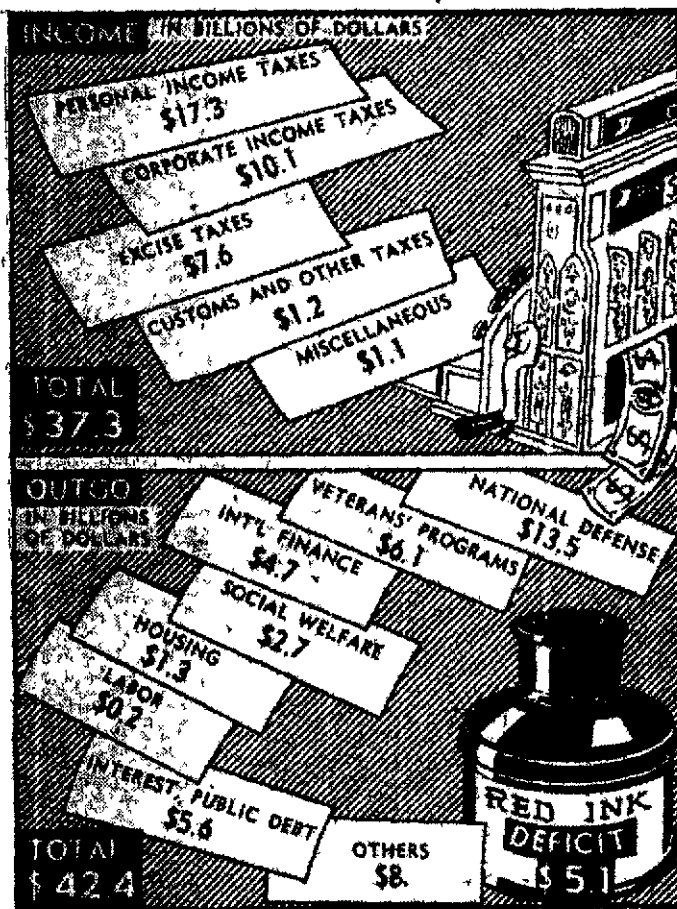

Fletcher also announced two other new regulations.

One establishes specifications for emergency reflectors to be used on certain trucks and buses.

The other permits a sticker certifying insurance coverage of so-called private rental cars to be carried in the car, instead of on the windshield of the vehicle. It applies to taxicabs not bearing regular taxi registration plates.

The chart graphically portrays the highlights of President Truman's budget message, in which he forecast a deficit of $3,133,000,000 for the fiscal year 1951, beginning July 1, 1950. This would be about $400,000,000 less than the 1950 fiscal deficit. (NEA Telephoto)

'These Days'

WATCH POINT FOUR!
It is only natural that nations that need credits should seek them, just as when a man is broke, he may have to borrow or to ask for charity. Some men make it a rule never to lend, but if they want to help a friend, they give him aid. It is often cheaper and easier that way than ever to try to collect. It has become charity in our dealings with the Europeans, except that they have developed the habit of asking for more and more and more.

Now that the Marshall Plan aid, through E.C.A., has done about as much as it can do, and the tempo of the people of the United States and the Congress is to cut European aid, a new device is being utilized, principally by Dean Acheson, our fumbling secretary of state. It is called "Point Four."

That phrase, of course, is meaningless. As a collection of words it conveys nothing of itself. Therefore, such wise men as Dean Acheson think it good. As long as nobody understands it, the better it can be used as an instrument of deceitful policy. The reason it is called Point Four is because it was the fourth point in a program President Harry Truman pronounced last year. But even if you read the Truman speech, little is really clear.

However, this Point Four has been very excitedly discussed in the British press. For them, it is another way of getting American money into British trade developments; it is another way to make it possible for the United States to pay the bills and the British get all the commercial advantages. Point Four provides that the United States will underwrite the improvement of life and the increase of trade of the weak and backward areas of the world. There are plenty of them. During the early days of the war, Henry Wallace proposed something along those lines and got laughed at, but Wallace's idea has now become incorporated in national policy; we shall yet put a bottle of Grade A milk on the breakfast of every Fiji-Islander!

The American correspondent of the London "Economist," a very important British publication, gives as a reason for Point Four:

"The first is to revive those nations which invested their capital in the United States in the early days, so that American railroads might be built and American mines opened."
Let's look at the record: From 1846 to 1914, a considerable amount of foreign capital flowed into the United States for investment in American industries of all kinds. This was generally accomplished by the purchase of stocks and bonds by individuals in Europe, trading in the market, and receiving dividends and any benefits that came from increased values.

Such investments were in companies like Western Union, American Telephone and Telegraph, St. Lawrence Power Company, United States Steel, Eastman Kodak, Pierce Oil, Pennsylvania Railroad, etc. The total of these investments is small compared to $50,000,000,000 of lend-lease, or the $30,000,000,000 we have sent to Europe since the war.

In 1899, it was estimated that the foreign investments in the United States amounted to $3,330,000,000; at the end of 1933, they amounted to $5,400,000,000. When World War II (1939) started, they were up to $9,068,000,000. Figures since then are confused because they are secret. The flight of capital from Europe and Asia, provided a sense of urgency for the possessors of liquid wealth, which they put into stocks, bonds, real estate, and even small businesses. A rough guess would be around $12,000,000,000. It may be higher.

But the difference is this: Point Four is a giveaway. It is charity. It is never to be repaid. It is an out-of-pocket handout by the American taxpayer.

These foreign investments in the United States are altogether something else. The European on Asiatic puts his money where it will be safe and gets a dividend in addition. And so far, he has usually got his money back with increased value.

Maybe, Harry Truman does not understand the difference between giving away your wealth and prudently investing it. The taxpayer will understand it quickly, if we ever get into this Point Four business.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Burton, M.D.

FORGOTTEN CHILDREN

In discussing some students of a high school with the principal, I told him that while I did not make mental tests I could usually size up mental ability during my physical examination. However, I singled out one boy. He was well built, and answered my questions smartly, but I couldn't make up my mind as to his I.Q., or intelligence quotient. The principal remarked that how the boy had managed to pass his entrance examinations even at the age of 16 (instead of the average of 13 or 14) he did not know, but the boy had not really advanced any in a year's time. His I.Q. was about 80.

The reason that I and the average individual might not notice that a boy or man had an I.Q. of 70 to 80 would often be because the individual was well-adjusted socially, and was able to feel at home among those of a similar grade of society.

In a booklet, "Forgotten Children," issued by the National Health Foundation, we learn that a feeble-minded (mentally deficient) person is one who does not have the natural intelligence and ability to carry his own load in life. This so handicaps him that he cannot compete on equal terms with normal people and requires guidance to manage his social and financial affairs.

However, all feeble-minded persons are not on the same level of intelligence. There are three types, or "levels," of feeble-mindedness—the idiot, the imbecile, and the moron. The adult idiot's intelligence is less than that of the average three-year-old child. He does not know enough to move away from an oncoming object. The imbecile knows enough to avoid danger and has the mentality of a child three to eight years of age. The moron's mental age is from eight to near normal, but never better than that of a 12-year-old in ability.

What can be done for the feeble-minded? Generally speaking, one an idiot, imbecile or moron, always one, but home guidance and special schools supported by the community can often make idiots to be less care to family and institutions.

In the meantime it is welcome news to know that some cases of feeble-mindedness are being helped by glutamic acid. We will await with interest further reports on this drug.

There Appears to Be Two Schools of Thought

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Herbert Hoover's statement that the American navy should be used to protect far-flung Formosa must have brought a wry smile from his old secretary of state Henry L. Stimson. For when Stimson served in the Hoover cabinet, he waged a valiant but losing fight inside that cabinet to take firm measures against Japanese aggression when the Jap war lords first landed in Manchuria.

Stimson wanted to cooperate with the League of Nations and with other countries in nipping what he quite clearly saw was the beginning of future war. But Hoover fussed, fumed, vacillated and finally said no. At one time Stimson wanted to send the American fleet not even as far as Formosa, or to Chinese waters, but simply on a cruise in the mid-Pacific as a gesture of American strength. Again Hoover said no.

Hoover would not even permit his secretary of state to keep American Consul General Prentiss Gilbert as an observer to the League of Nations in Geneva. Stimson had instructed Gilbert to sit in on the league conferences dealing with Manchurian aggression, but Hoover, worried over isolationists in the Republican national committee, finally yanked Gilbert out.

Today, however, the ex-president, who contributed more than any one man to undoing Stimson's farsighted war-prevention policy, now says the American fleet should be used in Chinese waters when it is too late.

Christmas in Alaska
Secretary of Air Stuart Symington, who spent Christmas 1949 in Berlin with the pilots and mechanics of the air lift, decided to spend the recent Christmas with the air force boys in the most dismal part of the world—Alaska. Before leaving, he asked Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the commanding officer, what he could bring that would please the air force most, and the answer came back: "Bring an entertainer."

So Symington called Bob Hope. This was three days before Christmas, and Bob Hope hesitated.

"I don't like to leave my kids," he said. "Bring 'em along," countered Symington.

"Well, let me ask the wife," said Hope.

In the end, the Hope family went. Hastily, he got together a piano player, a cowboy singer, a dancer, and with his wife to help him, the impromptu Hope troupe flew to Alaska, staged seven performances in two days, visited every post where American troops were stationed and brought them more joy than any other event of the winter.

Hope rehearsed his act on the airplane en route, but it didn't sound like it. One crack that made a hit with the G.I.'s was: "Bing Crosby would have come too, but at the last minute he fell off his wallet."

Yes, there's nothing Bing wouldn't do for me," continued Hope. "And there's nothing I wouldn't do for him. Yes, we spend all our time doing nothing for each other."

Note—Rated one of the most unselfish entertainers in the U.S.A., Bob Hope visited Washington about a year ago, spent all his time cheering up veterans in hospitals.

Watching Big Business
It hasn't garnered many headlines, but one of the most important probes on Capitol Hill has been the monopoly investigation conducted by Congressman "Manny" Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Handicapped for lack of funds, and despite terrific pressure from certain lobbyists, Celler has shown, among other things, how the big insurance companies now dominate the money market, have largely taken the place of Wall Street in loaning money to business.

F.D.R. set up the Securities and Exchange Commission to protect the public regarding stock and bond issues. But today, many big business firms don't have to worry about S.E.C. registration. They got their money from the insurance companies.

As a result of his probe, Congressman Celler will propose legislation at this session putting teeth in the anti-trust act.

Today," says Celler, "General

Electric is involved in 16 different anti-trust suits. Why? Because the penalties don't mean much. No jail sentences are ever imposed. That's why the anti-trust act is a joke. But at this Congress we plan to put jail sentences into the act."

"Rent Control Necessary"—H.S.T.
Three recent White House visitors found Harry Truman, the President, concerned about the Nation's housing shortage, and Harry Truman, the father, worried over daughter Margaret's singing.

Both subjects brought considerable feeling into Truman's voice as he chatted with Sen. Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama and Congressman Brent Spence of Kentucky, the big three on housing legislation.

Sparkman put in a plug for his bill to authorize long-term loans and low interest rates for middle-income housing.

"This is the last bill we need to make a well-rounded housing program," Sparkman observed.

The President heartily agreed, added that rent control should also be renewed. He suggested holding off until April, then making a last-minute study before extending rent control.

"I am convinced in my own mind," he stressed, "that rent control is absolutely necessary."

Truman on Margaret's Singing
-As Sparkman congratulated him on his daughter's singing, the President changed to the role of father.

"Margaret is working very hard. She is taking two lessons a day," Truman replied. He added that some critics had been harsh on her, and his tone of voice indicated that this hurt him worse than any political attack on himself.

But the people have been nice to her," he added. "I'm glad to hear that."

As the three congressional visitors were about to leave, Sparkman noted an ear of corn imbedded in a solid plastic prism on the President's desk.

"Is that an ear of Iowa corn?" the senator from Alabama inquired.

"I suspect it came from Iowa—or Missouri," replied the President.

"I didn't think prize corn came from Missouri. I thought it was prize mules," Spence of Kentucky broke in.

The President said that reminded him of a "terrible thing" that happened at a Missouri State Fair.

"They gave first prize," he said, "to two Kansas mules." (Copyright, 1950, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Headlines Say One Thing on Budget, Constitution Says Something Else

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 10—Judging by the headlines on all sides, the President of the United States has issued a budget and what he says will be spent is the amount that's going to be spent.

But the Constitution of the United States says:

"No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law." So, while Mr. Truman has "recommended" that the nation shall increase its public debt by another $5,000,000,000, thus making an increase of about $11,000,000,000 in the public debt in two fiscal years, the responsibility for this does not rest on the White House directly.

Mr. Truman blamed the Republicans who controlled the 80th Congress for reducing taxes and, as he says, causing a deficit. But he cannot blame the Republicans any more, because the Democrats control the 81st Congress and, if there's a deficit, it is the responsibility now of the Democrats. He might have cleared the air by putting the responsibility on Congress without regard to past years.

There will be much criticism of the President's message on the budget because he doesn't recommend more economies and attempt to balance income and outgo. But Mr. Truman knows that both Republicans and Democrats may talk a lot about economy and yet are the first to protest about cuts in appropriations that affect their districts.

Also just now when the business situation, despite the rosy forecasts, is delicate enough to be upset by a curtailment of spending, actual economizing of a drastic nature isn't going to be popular except in theory.

It is unfair, therefore, to put all the blame on the President. It is true that he could find ways to economize but he's playing the game the other way now—he is hoping that a stabilized business situation will be productive of higher and higher revenues and that the budget will be balanced out of receipts from existing rates.

Some changes in the tax rates are to be expected, and these will yield a "moderate" amount of revenue, but in the main there isn't any intention in Congress now of abandoning deficit financing.

The deficits are the largest ever experienced in peacetime. They are due not merely to expenses for past wars and future wars, as the apologists for deficit spending claim. The fact is that expenditures are not falling in these classifications. That is, the normal expenses of government are to receive an increase of $1,000,000,000 if Mr. Truman's recommendations are accepted.

A certain glib way of referring to the budget has arisen. Some one adds up the expenses for the military, the appropriations for veterans, the interest on the public debt and lumps together all these as expenses "for past wars and future wars." This is supposed to quiet any protests. For it is assumed that the citizen will agree that expenses of past wars must be met and that everybody wants an adequate national defense to prevent a future war or to be ready to fight that war if it breaks out.

So 71 per cent of the budget is removed from consideration of debate at once and the citizen is asked to consider the only in the remaining 29 per cent is there any room for a difference of opinion? As a matter of fact, there is more waste in the 71 per cent than anywhere else. This is because the government is run on a "hush-hush" basis and anybody who comes up with a more economical way to do natural defense usually told he can't discuss it because it would reveal information about our strategic plans or their collateral phases.

The Congress is charged with the duty of penetrating the camouflage that has surrounded national defense expenditures. It is responsible also for failing to check up on the manner in which the treasury has been loaded by all sorts of schemes whereby veterans who were not injured in past wars are now collecting benefits for disabilities really not caused in service in wartime. If only the truly needy veterans were aided, there would be less expense to the government. It is among such items that an economically minded Congress could make substantial cuts. But the Congress is political and the pressure to spend have political implications.

So it may be taken for granted that deficit spending is here to stay for some time and that the dollar will be worth less and less as the inflationary trend in America is gradually lengthened. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 9—When a clergyman tells me that he and some brothers of the cloth intentionally soft-pedal iniquities of union bosses and unions for fear that Communists will persuade the rank and file that they are enemies of Labor my first objection of course is moral. I myself knowingly took that risk in campaigning for about twelve years against the bad men and the evil effects of our unionism. I still find myself referred to as a labor-baiter by men who are demonstrably harsh and greedy enemies of labor. When a Joe Ryan calls me a Fascist, a William Green or a John L. Lewis calls me a labor-baiter I wonder because I assume that some of the rank and file and even some of the people who are supposed to be intelligent will believe them. Some of the intelligent people who take their word for it are well-read and up-to-date on many things but never can get through their heads that Labor and Unionism are not synonymous. They can't remain aware that labor is in many important ways a victim of unionism. I have shown this in many phases over these years, but people are mentally lazy and they will not hear in mind facts which prove that Ryan, Green and Lewis and every other professional unionizer that I can think of, are actual labor-baiters.

As I say, I wonder because "labor-baiter" is a dirty epithet in these debates, but there is a difference between wincing and finching. I think these clergymen that I refer to are guilty of finching.

I think that, come what may, they have a moral obligation to tell the appropriate truth in any given situation and to brave it out. I think it is wrong to abash the terrible crimes that have been committed against the government of my country and our several states, counties and cities by bad men even though those bad men do perform two or three religious duties and even though former fellow-travelers, such as Mike Quill and Joe Curran, seem to have seen the error of their ways. Their damage is done, I will never trust them no matter what they may say to the effect that they have changed their minds. Alleviate I emphatically point out that they have never professed to have changed at all. They have never been fellow-travelers of the Communists. They just suddenly began to fight their old comrades of the Communist fronts. I have absolutely no faith in their sincerity and suspect a trick and a trap. It is not of my business what terms any such men may have made, spiritually, with any clergy. I never speculated on the state of their souls when they were finching with the Reds but only opposed their conduct and tried to frustrate them from their part.

So They Say...

We are trying to rebuild the armies of western Europe under the military aid plan and we are straining as we do that yet some of our new crop of China experts want us to undertake other ventures in China or seek that would raise havoc with our domestic economy.

—Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D.) California.

Americans now spend $8,800,000,000 a year to drink 2,928,000,000 gallons of liquor, wine and beer, at a cost to the nation of $2,000,000 for 1,331,000,000 gallons in 1934, the first completely wet year after prohibition.

—Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

We ought to review our whole tax policy—national, state and local—looking more toward an incentive policy where we reward people who put men to work and do our social benefit job through private enterprise.

—Philip Willkie, Indian state legislator.

Why don't we say, "How do we see it?" instead of "The World is going to hell in a hand basket." —Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, urging greater optimism on the part of Americans.

The future lies in the great study of human relations. Man will not attain a more abundant life merely by voting for it, he must work for it.

—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

Twin Moves . . .

with respect to actions in restraint of trade in certain cases.

Ferguson, after hearing protests of coal shortages from a number of midwestern retail coal dealers, said he probably would introduce a resolution asking President Truman to take fast action in the present coal situation.

However, it was apparent that either the Robertson or Ferguson moves would take a long time clearing Congress. Also, Rep. Wolcott (Mich.), while favoring a resolution like Ferguson's, acknowledged that the President could ignore it.

50,000 Are on Strike

Pittsburgh, Jan. 10 (AP)—More than 50,000 soft coal miners are on strike today. Many of them don't even know why.

Industry spokesmen say the walkout is another effort by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis to needle mine operators into signing a contract.

The strike began yesterday morning. U.M.W. officials denied the action was ordered by union headquarters. By nightfall scores of mines were empty in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Alabama, Virginia, Ohio and Utah.

Some miners—those who were willing to talk with outsiders about it—said the strike was decided on at meetings of their U.M.W. locals.

Other miners said their locals hold no meetings; they're just staying away from the mines because "that's the healthy thing to do when there's a strike on."

It's not a nationwide strike. The idle diggers are only about one-eighth of the 400,000 men employed in the bituminous (soft coal) industry.

Some industry sources said the walkout probably will end without warning, just as it began. They termed it a planned policy of harassment which will continue to strike at random—here today, somewhere else next week.

No full scale work stoppage is expected. That might create just the "emergency" required for government intervention under the Taft-Hartley law.

For example, 16,000 miners in Illinois who struck a week ago returned to work yesterday just as the current walkout in seven other states began.

Principally affected at present are the captive mines owned by United States Steel Corporation and other steelmakers, plus the big Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company.

About 2,400 miners walked out in Eastern Ohio, including diggers employed at mines of the Hanna Coal Company. James Hyslop, Hanna president, declared:

"Our men want to work and would if left to themselves."

Captive mines owned by Republic, Inland, Crucible and Weirton Steel Companies and Youngstown Sheet and Tube were shut down by the walkout. But the lightning missed the coal mining operations of the Bethlehem and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporations.

In Greene county in the southwest corner of Pennsylvania only one mine is still operating and it's expected to shut down before the day is over.

One Greene county miner who wouldn't divulge his name declared he didn't know why he was on strike. He said:

"There wasn't any meeting or anything. It just seems to be the grapevine working. One of my buddies called me on the phone and said there wasn't any use coming to work. He said the fellows told him they weren't going to work."

"So I'm just going to stay home till the whole thing clears up. You don't want to go hanging around the mine when there's any kind of a strike going on."

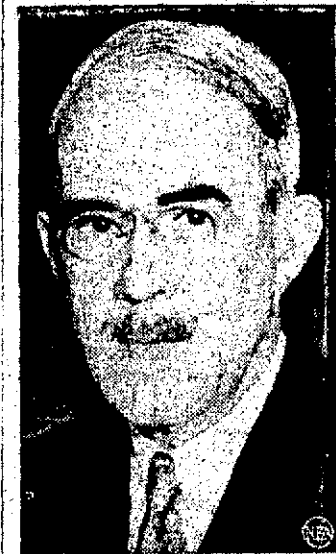

In western Pennsylvania, 22,100 diggers and 39 pits were idled. The mines are capable of producing 120,000 tons of coal a day.

In West Virginia, 13,000 of the state's 110,000 U.M.W. members failed to show up. Alabama had another 5,000 miners staying at home. About 5,000 stopped work in Kentucky and 990 walked out in Utah.

Candon Is Head Of Insurance Group

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—Senator William F. Candon, co-author of the Condon-Wadlin Law banning strikes by public employees, heads the State Senate's Insurance Committee, instead of the Labor Committee, this year.

Candon, a Republican from Yonkers, moved up last night, by appointment of Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Senate majority leader.

Republican Senator Ernest I. Hatfield of Poughkeepsie succeeded Candon as head of the Labor and Industry Committee.

As insurance chairman, Candon replaces Senator Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican who advanced last spring to chairmanship of the Finance Committee.

Other new chairmen announced last night were George N. Pierce of Olean, Affairs of Villages, and Henry A. Wise of Watertown, General Laws.

There were no changes in Assembly committee chairmen. Assemblyman John F. Wadlin, Highland Republican who joined Candon in writing the Condon-Wadlin Act, continues as chairman of the Labor Committee in the lower House.

Speaker Oswald D. Heck appointed Republican Joseph F. Carlucci, Nassau, to the Rules Committee and Republican Leo Lawrence, Herkimer, to the Ways and Means committee. They succeed Assemblyman Henry F. Neddo of Washington county, who was elected last fall to the state Senate.

2 Parties Demand Investigation of New York Port

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—Republican and Democratic assemblymen today demanded a legislative investigation of the Port of New York Authority.

Republican Samuel Roman of Manhattan and Democrat Nathan Lashin of the Bronx both introduced separate resolutions calling for creation of a joint legislative committee to look into "complaints" against operations of the joint New York-New Jersey agency.

Roman said he had received complaints about the Authority's conduct of its affairs on the fixing of toll charges, and the cost of its administration, and the vast expenditures for consultation fees and its general relationship with the entrepreneurs who seek to do business with the Port Authority. Lashin's resolution urged a "re-appraisal of its (the Authority's) appropriate role in the future growth and development of the metropolitan area."

Lashin said in a statement that there was "no real supervision by any state agency over the affairs, business operations" and other details of the Authority's work.

He also contended that the Authority "has so extended and enlarged its activities that it now has jurisdiction over and performs functions not originally contemplated by" the legislatures of either New York or New Jersey.

Lashin charged specifically that the Authority had given incomplete information to the governors of two states in connection with awarding a contract for the new tunnel for the Union Bus Terminal in New York city.

The second lowest bidder, the Turner Construction Company, was awarded the contract Dec. 17. The Authority said at the time that it thought the Turner Company was better qualified to handle the project than the Merritt-Chapman and Scott Corp., which was the low bidder.

Roman asked for an appropriation of $50,000 for the proposed joint commission's investigation. Lashin sought $15,000.

Winter Storms Hold Up Queen Mary Arrival

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—The liner Queen Mary, buffeted by winter storms and heavy seas, arrived today, 24 hours late.

Capt. George F. Cove, master of the ship, said "it was the worst passage of the North Atlantic that I have made in a good many years."

"We had all kinds of weather," Capt. Cove said, "and at one point, off Cape Hatteras, the wind hit 90 miles an hour. We had worst storms almost from the beginning of the crossing, with fog, sleet and snow."

Capt. Cove said that until yesterday the bow and forward deck of the liner were sheathed in ice. The ice, he said, sustained no damage and no one was injured.

One of the passengers was the Marchioness of Milford Haven, mother of the Marquess of Milford Haven, whose wedding to Romaine Simpson, of New York and Washington, is scheduled for Washington next month.

She declined to discuss the wedding.

Asks Moral Offensive

Seattle, Jan. 10 (AP)—John Foster Dulles has called for a moral offensive to defeat the spread of communism, whose leaders never consider peace "a matter of morality, but one of expediency." The 61-year-old Republican leader said last night such a moral offensive could shake the Communist political structure, which he termed over-extended, over-extended and founded. Dulles, in an address before the Seattle Council of Churches, said that this country's present materialistic viewpoint has left the overrun people of Europe and China, as well as those of the United States, feeling that the United States has abandoned them. "They have to choose between a mood of resistance, which is highly dangerous, and a mood of surrender, which may permit survival," he asserted.

Simply a Device

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 10 (AP)—The sembo, Czechoslovakian word for trade union, is just a device to get the minds of Brazil's workers off their troubles. The police, said the newspaper, is a nice dance. "Long live the Czech police," the articles said.

Ernest C. Huser of West Park, formerly of Hoboken, died Monday evening after a long illness. He retired two and a half years ago. For a time he was employed by the West Shore Railroad, where he was a mail and express on the trains which have been discontinued. After being cross-examined by County Attorney Fred Stang, who appears for the County of Ulster and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in opposition to the discontinuance, the exhibits were introduced in evidence.

The present action is brought by the county and the Brotherhood against the Railroad, in opposition to the curtailed service offered under the new schedule for trains operating over the West Shore between Weehawken and Albany.

Figures produced in mail and express revenue was offered by the Railroad to indicate that the revenue from this source was very small and contributed but little to the operating cost of the trains. It is the contention of the Railroad that the trains withdrawn have been taken out of service as a public necessity. The Railroad contends the trains which have been continued in service give sufficient service.

Since the proceeding was commenced last fall additional trains have been removed, the latest curtailment on the division being as late as Monday, January 9.

On January 8, according to a new timetable just issued, ten trains were removed from the division. Icy Roads Delay Hearing Opening On Train Service

Icy highways this morning delayed opening of the Public Service Commission hearing at the court house in opposition to the discontinuance of train service on the West Shore Railroad between Albany and Weehawken.

Hearing Commissioner A. H. Williamson started out for Kingston by car but icy highways were reported to have changed his plans and he came to Kingston by West Shore Railroad, arriving in time to open the adjourned hearing at 11:45 o'clock.

William M. Smith, superintendent of mails and express for the New York Central Railroad in this area, was recalled to the stand as the first witness of the day. He identified and explained exhibits which were presented at the last hearing showing the revenue derived from mail and express on the trains which have been discontinued. After being cross-examined by County Attorney Fred Stang, who appears for the County of Ulster and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in opposition to the discontinuance, the exhibits were introduced in evidence.

The present action is brought by the county and the Brotherhood against the Railroad, in opposition to the curtailed service offered under the new schedule for trains operating over the West Shore between Weehawken and Albany.

Figures produced in mail and express revenue was offered by the Railroad to indicate that the revenue from this source was very small and contributed but little to the operating cost of the trains. It is the contention of the Railroad that the trains withdrawn have been taken out of service as a public necessity. The Railroad contends the trains which have been continued in service give sufficient service.

Since the proceeding was commenced last fall additional trains have been removed, the latest curtailment on the division being as late as Monday, January 9.

On January 8, according to a new timetable just issued, ten trains were removed from the division. Heiselman Reveals Trees Are Ruined

The pre-Christmas cutting and mutilation of two prized Douglas fir trees from his property at 173 West Chestnut street was revealed today by former Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman.

The trees, set out many years ago by a landscape expert, had grown to a height of from 25 to 30 feet and were a valued part of the landscaping of the garden. One week before Christmas, Heiselman said he discovered one of the trees sawed off four or five feet from the base. The middle section of the tree was left lying on the ground and only the top portion sawed off and carried away, presumably for a Christmas tree, he said.

After notifying police, Heiselman and Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum discovered that the other tree had been partially sawed through. Heiselman and his father-in-law placed wax in the cut in an attempt to save the second tree. However, on the following day he found that this tree, too, had been cut down and its top taken away.

Loss of the trees destroys the beauty of the entire garden, Heiselman said. Because of the rocky ground, he doubts that it would be possible to transplant any similar trees in the place. The two trees which were cut had been set out when small.

Heiselman told The Freeman he would gladly have purchased a Christmas tree for the person who committed the act if he were too poor to buy one for himself, had this person only come to the house and asked for a tree before he cut the valuable decorative trees.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

With everyone going back now 50 years, I just want to go back some 27 years, to December 12, 1922, according to the Leader of that date. The Masonic Club of Kingston met the evening before in the Masonic Hall on Wall street, to discuss matters of permanent meeting quarters. A committee composed of the club which had been appointed at a previous meeting, reported on the suggestion that rooms be secured on the top floor of the Kingston Club on Fair street, but this was turned down and the club took definite action by voting to have permanent quarters either by purchase or building. The club was composed of members of Kingston Lodge. So said the item. Today the Masons and Eastern Stars meet in their own beautiful building on Albany avenue, next to the Governor Clinton Hotel. In this permanent home art mammoth mirror, marble fireplaces and carpeted club rooms and a fully equipped kitchen with dining room on the lower floor.

A quarter of a century ago, December 12, 1922—John Gilbert was playing in "The Yellow Stain" and Bert Lytell in "That Right That Failed" at Keeney's Theatre. Prices were 20 cents from 1 to 5, and 25 cents from 7 to 11. The Auditorium in the Y.M.C.A. building had 17 cents admission for both performances. The Kingston Opera House was showing "The Prodigal Judge" and had "delightful musical accompaniment of old time melodies." Remember it was the time of silent pictures. Also "Free, one cake Kirkman's soap to every lady." Prices were 17 cents for afternoons, and 28 cents evenings.

Rose-Gorman-Rose was open evenings beginning Tuesday, December 12, for the Christmas rush, and had just received a $10,000 stock of high grade fur coats. Fortyth & Davis, Inc., at 307 Wall street, were advertising watercolors by leading artists, from a Marine by Neil Mitchell at $12 to landscape by English for $61. Picture of sheep by Derriek also $60. Perhaps someone in town owns these watercolors today.

Who remembers Clermont Hall on Wall street? A big dance was going to be held there Friday, December 15, 1922, admission 50 cents. Fox trot prize of $5 in gold. The Merry Melody Orchestra of Saengerries consisting of eight pieces furnished the music.

The Ten Brock Drug Store at 322 Wall street was having a special sale on self-filling fountain pens for 69 cents together with a mechanical pencil, Aaron and Raphael Cohen were proprietors of the drug store, successors to Charles C. Ten Brock.

C. V. L. Pitts & Son were at 311 Wall street and their ad. read "When you think of gifts you naturally think of jewelry—and of reliability—and when you think of reliability you can think of no better house in which to place your confidence than this old well established jewelry house." They list more than 60 articles such as diamonds, jewel boxes, hair ornaments, desk lamps, table ornaments, cut glass, silver baby rattles, vest chains, military brushes, binoculars, coat pins, lodge emblems, match boxes, thumbies, picture frames, waxes, clocks, silverware, etc.

poses. I am equally apathetic and on the same issue now.

I have always understood that confession, contrition and restitution and a firm purpose of amendment were essential and this happens to be a case in which the law-abiding public, if it simply takes the law into its own hands, are parties at interest. The bad men of unionism don't cleanse themselves of their guilt against my rights by any private negotiations, however sincere with their personal religious consciences, if I understand the law. The principle that they have somehow achieved this effect by this means then we would have to enact the greatest jail-delivery in history. Every killer, thug and thief in every prison in the country who made a private and confidential arrangement with his chaplain would be entitled to unconditional forgiveness by the public.

I respectfully argue that this proposition that the American people, the workers, will get a mistaken impression that you are "anti-labor" if you attack traitors to the cause of the workers is equally inane in the eyes of our moral and public laws, is unworthy of men who preach Christ. Jesus Christ didn't take back or flinch in fear of the passion of a misguided mob. Moreover in this case I do not agree that the American people are so stupid as to be misled. I suggest I find that many of the sharpest people are too sharp enough to discriminate between the professions of the union racket, the hypocritical platitudes of Roosevelt, Truman and the lot, and the facts of life under unionism. They can parse and analyze the economic case, it seems to me that this proposition that the people can be alienated from religion and inflamed against the clergy by such distortion of the truth bespeaks a very low opinion of the intelligence of Americans. That estimate may be correct be-caused and wrought a lot of trouble and confusion in the nation returns and the trend toward Marxism indicated. But that is a chance we have to take. If they are that stupid why bother to appeal to their reason at all? Why not just trick them into trap unions and regiment them with dog-whips?

Let's return to the sports possibility. In the stupidity of labor has been exaggerated. I rely on hope that labor would respond joyously and bravely to the words of a clergy which should crusade after the example of Jesus Christ against money-changers in the international markets of the Transports, the Hod-Carriers, and Operating Engineers' unions and the Musicians' Union, for examples. All of these, incidentally, are bossed absolutely by members of one and the same religious communion and these members are the most able labor balancers. I think sincere and brave ministers of religion who should campaign against such men would make a lot of medicine for the clergy and, incidentally, for religion, too.

I hope the foregoing, respectfully submitted, will not be construed as an admission that unions are in any of the forms that we have seen in this country, is fit for anything but to be blown to hell.

Death Ends Rebel Wedding

Bangkok (AP)—A notorious Communist leader died today after losing a grim game of hide-and-seek with government troops. Bo Seik wanted to celebrate his marriage. He tied up his jungle hide-out, prepared a feast. Then he summoned his friends and the finest gladiolus cello music and laughter. They sang and danced. And their ghosts sang and danced. At the height of the festivities, government troops burst in upon the scene. The rebel reached for his gun. He was beaten to the draw. For the hideoutroom there was death. For the bride, mourning

Partner's Pushing Steals the Contract

Bridge players come from every walk of life. Today's hand is one received from my friend Frank
Lyons down in Kingston, Maine. Mr. Lyons is very active in bridge down there and each year a group of players comes up to the States to participate in the National tournaments.

Lyons thought my readers would be interested in this hand, which came up recently in a rubber game. He was sitting in the North and after overcalling West's club bid with a diamond, he said his partner decided to do a little pushing. They ended up in the right spot. If the opponents had gone to four hearts or four

Mr. Lyons made his four-diamond contract in the following manner: On the opening lead of the ten of clubs the deuce was played. West winning with the king. He returned the seven of clubs which dealer won with the queen. He cashed the ace and king of diamonds.

Then the seven of diamonds was led and won in dummy with the queen, which picked up the outstanding trump. He led the five of clubs and trumped in his hand with the king of diamonds.

His next play of the queen of spades was won by West with the king. After a long huddle West decided to play the ace of spades which Mr. Lyons trumped in dummy with the six of diamonds. He cashed his six and nine of clubs and then the eight of spades and five of hearts.

He now conceded a heart trick, thus losing only a spade, heart and a club, making his contract of four diamonds doubled.

Sorosis Hears Story Of Local Industry

Sorosis Club met at the home of Mrs. Fred Ertel, 322 Albany avenue, Monday afternoon. Mrs. William McVey presided. Mrs. Boyd N. Williams reported for the legislative committee.

The paper for the day entitled "Modern Business," was read by Mrs. Ertel. This year Sorosis has had a free lance program with each paper evolving from a subject of first hand interest or knowledge of the member. Mrs. Ertel chose to write about her husband's modern filter business.

She mentioned that implements made of steel were "old stuff" even in grandparent's day but today the by-products of age-old businesses are the new ventures of this age. Fifty years ago a German farmer with a small farm put his spare time into wine-making hoping to add to the family budget. This farmer, accidentally made a great discovery. While working with some asbestos he stumbled and a few pieces fell into a barrel of wine. He couldn't afford to lose the wine and couldn't sell it with foreign particles floating in it so he rigged up a filter and thereby discovered that the wine that ran through the asbestos material was clearer and brighter than it had been originally and after many years of work and experimentation this accident became the basis of many taken-for-granted blessings today in the filtering of medicines, cosmetics and other products.

Mrs. Ertel showed pictures of the filter machines used in hospitals, in food and drug factories and passed around samples of raw asbestos and finished filter papers for the members to see and feel. She told of neighbors in the early days of experimenting thinking she was baking cheese cakes when her husband put the different consistencies of filter paper out in the sun to test them.

Plans were made at the meeting of Junior League Monday afternoon for the showing of the movie, "Playtown, U.S.A.," at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, next Monday night. The public is invited to see this movie and also to hear C. E. Brewer, staff consultant of the National Recreation Association.

The meeting Monday was held at the home of Mrs. Edward DeGoff, Wilson avenue, with Mrs. Herbert Cutler as co-hostess. The league was reminded that Mrs. DeLeslie Allen, regional director, will be visiting the local group for the February meeting.

In meeting the requirements of the league the group heard seven lectures during a three week period last summer: Early History of Kingston, given by Mrs. Mary Black Terwilliger, custodian of the Senate House Museum; Recreation, Burton S. Tandy, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A.; Public School System in Ulster County, N. Jansen Fowler, member of the Kingston Board of Education; Industrial Conditions, Mrs. Mabel Fisher, business agent for Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, Local 186; Public Health, Miss Esther Schiss, director of nurses, Ulster County Health Department; Housing, Arthur A. Mrs. Robert F. Moseley, who was in charge of provisional members last year and who arranged for the lectures, spoke with grateful thanks to the people who gave up time in their busy schedules to speak of their work with the four provisionals. The group also assisted in the book service project at the hospitals, conducted the summer dance, and held a rummage sale in the fall as well as filled other requirements for full membership in the league.

Many people are waiting for prices to come down before they invest in a new piano. Well, we certainly hope they are right, that prices will come down. We would welcome it but, we doubt very much that there will be any price reduction for quite a while. They may come out with cheaper models but how do you think any factory can produce quality merchandise at lower prices, when the cost of materials and labor is on the up-beat. Steel has gone up in price considerably and there is quite a bit of steel in a piano. The labor union won a fight for higher wages at the plant of one of our largest piano action manufacturers, etc. So—when do you think the prices will be lower?

Wait, and you and your children will probably be a few years older. Good years, valuable years in piano practice for children. We say, don't wait, buy now and you won't be sorry. The few dollars you MIGHT save, a few years from now, are worth the difference in time lost.

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

SEVERAL VISITORS AT ONCE

This question comes up again after many months. "Is a visitor supposed to cut her visit short if other visitors arrive? How soon should she leave? (I don't mean when visiting a patient who is not allowed many visitors at a time.)"

If the visitors are strangers and there is no particular reason for staying, after 10 minutes or so the first corners should be the ones to leave. Naturally, if the strangers have long wanted to meet, or they find the general topic of conversation especially interesting, there is particular reason for staying.

Meaning of Guest Card

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please explain that when a guest card to a club is given, it means, this doesn't mean they may run up a bill for bar and food charges. Or does it? I had imagined they paid their own bills, through us, of course.

Answer: You are right. Every guest in a club should go at once to the desk and ask that vouchers on which his initials are included be kept apart so that he may pay them all on the last day of his visit to the club. If in his ignorance he fails to do this, the member is obliged to pay all of his guest's charges.

Young People in Mourning

Dear Mrs. Post: The two boys I might consider asking to my school dance have both lost members of their families recently. Mother doesn't think I should ask either one at a time like this. How long is a boy (or girl) supposed to stay away from dances when he loses a parent or brother?

Answer: In the present day all mourning has been shortened, and for really young people it is almost negligible. Possibly so short a time as a few weeks absence from parties might, in certain communities, be considered sufficient. Six months would be conventional.

Champagne at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the least amount of champagne per person that could be provided for a wedding reception?

Answer: One quart for six people would furnish one glass for every guest. Something less than this might be sufficient, since there are always some who take none.

Is there some question in your mind about table setting? Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 504, includes questions most asked by the young housewife.

To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 10, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Sales Program Helps Offset Dairy Losses

Dairymen whose milk is shipped into the metropolitan New York market will receive 44 cents per hundredweight less for Class I fluid milk in January, which means an average drop in purchasing power of about $22.79 for every producer in Ulster county, or a total loss of possible business amounting to $8,318.

Milk For Health county chairman Ira Saxe of West Hurley, points out that a constructive milk sales program can correct this situation as it has in other markets.

"In the nearby Connecticut market," Saxe said, "where dairymen have organized a Dairy Council and are using the advertising facilities of the American Dairy Association, there has been an increase in per capita consumption of fluid milk 21 per cent greater than in our New York market."

"Were we to have our Milk For Health program in operation in this milkshed, and had shown only a 2 per cent increase, every dairymen in this county would have four dollars for every dollar he invested in the program."

"Dairy farmers are coming a new expression: 'Early to bed and early to rise; work like the dickens and advertise', according to Saxe. We've been working hard enough, but this coming year we must concern ourselves with how well our product is marketed."

'Most Crucial' Campaign

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today described its 1950 March of Dimes campaign as the "most crucial" in its history and set a record goal of $52,000,000.

President Basil O'Connor said the foundation's funds were exhausted "as a result of the unprecedented infantile paralysis epidemics in 1949." He said the $52,000,000 will be sought in a nationwide campaign from January 16 to January 31.

Man Gives His Wife Unwanted Haircut

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 10 (AP)—Beris H. Verkey, 40, gave his 27-year-old wife an unwanted haircut. She wound up in the hospital and he in the county jail.

His wife, Dorothy Louise, says her husband cut off her waist-length red tresses with barber shears and clippers "for a change."

She went to the hospital after Sunday's haircut suffering from hysteria.

Verkey told reporters "I sheared her hair to keep her from flaunting her tresses. It gave her too much power."

Verkey was charged with assault with deadly weapons.

The Verkeys were married Christmas Day. He said the marriage was his fifth and her third.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

"HORSE AND BUGGY AGE" was still in its heyday when the 20th Century was new. Some kind of "rig," powered by faithful Dobbin, was still the common way for the family to get about. Few villages, however small, were without a livery stable that rented horses and rigs to those who did not own their own and blacksmiths heard a profitable trade. Buggy drivers, liveriesmen and blacksmiths heard an annoying, jarring noise—but they didn't know it sounded their doom. It was the gasoline motor. Pioneers of the auto age—Duryea, Olds, Ford and others—were to revolutionize our way of life. Their autos looked like buggies—were, in fact, "horseless carriages." But Grandpa quickly learned that the new-fangled contraption was just perfect for certain Grandpa.

Blinks Tabulated

New York (AP)—Each time you blink your vision is cut off for three-tenths of a second. All your daily blinks add up to a lot of no-seeing during a day. Since a short period of readjustment is needed after each blink, psychologists figure that you go about more or less unseeing for 11 to 20 per cent of your waking day. The Better Vision Institute reports. "Blinking keeps the eyes moist and clean, and provides rest and refreshment for the nerves and brains. A man whose eyes were kept open for long periods would go to pieces, the psychologists say. There's quite a difference, between a wink and a blink, besides intent. In a wink, the upper and lower lids share the job about equally, meeting over the pupil. But in a blink most of the work is done by the upper lid, with the two lids meeting about at the base of the iris.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

It is ironical to read the New Year gushy comments by prominent people—from President Truman down—when actually never in history has the world been in a more precarious position.

One might suppose that every thing everywhere is milk and honey—that the United States is beloved by Russia, that China is quietly attending to rice harvesting, that the atom bomb is merely an interesting scientific experiment.

It seems to the Ruminator that there has not been a time when "contrary opinion" might prove more valuable than in connection with prevailing pronouncements, including the President's State-of-the-Union message.

You doubtless heard Mr. Truman's address over the radio, or have read it in the newspapers. Do you recall ever having heard of a President's message on the conditions of the country—delivered to the Congress in person—being an occasion for mirth, for jeering and for the speaker himself indulging in what amounted to wisecracks?

We are rapidly losing all dignity in the highest office in the land. It started with Franklin calling under the New Deal. It has progressed until the position of President has shifted from the respected head of a great nation, serving the people, to the office of a political demagogue "leading" the masses. Wednesday's forty-five minute oration on what wonderful opportunities lie ahead—if only the ideas for the welfare for all the people are carried out—is a perfect example of demagogic appeal.

The successful campaign of 1948 was conducted in the same manner. By merely repeating over and over again a few promises for various groups (of voters) and by damming the "60th Congress" which he did again on Wednesday. No explanations, no proof—simply assertions—and the masses of people were "led" further down the road toward a state-controlled economy.

While listening to Mr. Truman one does not have to think, or to ruminate, over this or that proposal. The proposals are tossed out—not as ideas to be considered and weighed—but as simple ideas to make this a land of milk and honey. This is a very difficult strategy to combat, obviously. In order to combat the Truman tactics the opposition is forced to demonstrate why the welfare program cannot work without, eventually, crippling the nation. Yet, as soon as opponents of the welfare state commence to "explain" and to "prove" that the milk-and-honey route can only lead to bread and molasses, they lose their audience! The crowd is entertained by—and accepts—assertions that compel no thinking. It is bored and loses interest when "reasons why" are lengthily and loftily discussed by the opposition.

Over 50 years ago a brilliant Frenchman by the name of Gustave LeBon wrote a little book which one might suppose is carried in the hip-pockets of welfare-staters for constant reference. Let me quote just two or three sentences: "A crowd is at the mercy of all external exciting causes... it is the slave of impulses which it receives... Crowds are as incapable of willing as of thinking for any length of time... Given to exaggeration in its feelings, a crowd is only impressed by excessive sentiments. An orator wishing to move a crowd must make an abusive use of violent affirmations. To exaggerate, to affirm, to resort to repetitions, and never attempt to prove anything by reasoning are methods of argument well known to speakers at public meetings."

This little handbook on crowd psychology is titled "The Crowd—A Study of the Popular Mind." It has been reprinted 18 or 20 times in the last 55 years. The publisher of my copy is Ernest Benn Limited of London ($2). The book is in print and your bookseller can obtain a copy for you. It is essential reading today, if you wish to understand the trend of affairs and why the trend is not likely to be reversed soon.

Let me add one more lengthy sentence by M. LeBon. Remember, this was written in the 1890's not in the 1950's.

Today the claims of the masses are becoming more and more sharply defined, and amount to nothing less than a determination to utterly destroy society as it now exists with a view to making it hark back to the primitive communism which was a normal condition of all human groups before the dawn of civilization.

The more one interests himself in the world-wide trend toward a socialist state the more he comes to recognize that today's "reactionary" is in reality a "liberal." True "reaction" goes back to a regimented state and not to freedom of enterprise and individual initiative which is modern liberalism.

Seasonal Layoffs Show Their Usual Trend

The usual mid-winter rise of unemployment was reflected in this area last month, according to Department of Labor statistics released today from the local placement and unemployment insurance offices.

Seasonal layoffs in construction trades, winter close-down of most brickyards and limited activity in the needle trades industry resulted in an increase in unemployment here over the previous month, the statistics show.

The Kingston placement office received 493 new job applications during December, an increase of 81 over November. A total of 110 placements were made last month by the local office, compared to 138 in November.

A weekly average of 1,457 persons in the county actually received unemployment insurance payments during December, compared to 993 the preceding month. Of those receiving December payments, 1,012 were from Kingston, the remainder from the county outside the city.

Cow's Ferments Studied

Sacramento (AP)—Does it matter to you what goes on in those extra stomachs of cows and sheep? It should, says C. F. Huffman, Michigan State College dairying expert. He told a recent animal industry conference here that not enough is known about just what takes place in the rumen, or first stomach of cows and sheep. "The efficient fermentation vat of cattle and sheep make possible the utilization of one-half to one billion acres of range land in the United States which would otherwise yield little if any human food," he declared. What is not widely realized, says Huffman, is that ruminants do not get most of their nourishment directly from feed, but from the digestion and absorption of countless number of food-laden bacteria that work on the coarse food in the rumen.

Gambling Has

national's largest interdenominational Protestant body, opposed the plan on moral grounds.

In a statement, the council said it considers gambling an insidious menace to personal character and to morality, and added:

"By encouraging the idea of getting something for nothing, of getting a financial return without rendering any service, gambling tends to undermine the basic ideas of public welfare. This is an evil that needs restraint rather than promotion."

At the chancery office of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York, a spokesman said Francis Cardinal Spellman would have no comment until he fully studied the mayor's proposal, and possibly not even then.

At present, New York, along with about half the states in the country, licenses pari-mutuel betting at horse race tracks, but prohibits taking of bets by independent bookmakers or at so-called "horse rooms."

Embodied in Bill

Part of O'Dwyer's plan was embodied in a bill introduced in the legislature last night by Sen. James J. Crawford, Brooklyn Democrat. It would legalize off-track horse betting, a move which Crawford has unsuccessfully sponsored in previous sessions.

His bill, however, covers only one phase of O'Dwyer's broad proposal, which would okay the booking of bets for such sports as boxing, basketball, football and ice hockey, as well as racing.

The mayor emphasized he did not "favor" wide open gambling. His plan would not permit open-ation of slot machines, dice and roulette tables or similar games.

Commissioners of the various sports in which O'Dwyer proposed legal gambling, including Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and National American League Football Commissioner Bert Bell—had nothing to say.

"I'm in the football business," said Bell. "I don't know anything about legislation."

To put legal gambling on the New York statute books would be a two-year process. The plan would require legislative approval in two successive sessions, and an okay by a public referendum.

O'Dwyer revealed his proposal in the wake of a drastic police department shakeup ordered as part of an intensified drive to rid the city of gambling.

In the last week, police have made 713 gambling arrests, reportedly sending bookmakers fleeing to New Jersey.

Bicycle Is Recovered; Sewing Machine Taken

The bicycle of Arlington Mergendahl, 54 Franklin street, which was reported stolen from the M.J.M. School yesterday afternoon was recovered at the Ruess Bowlerium early this morning, police said. Another bicycle was reported to the police at 8:28 p. m. by Joseph Kearney, 11 Main street, said a sewing machine belonging to his parents was taken from a cottage in the vicinity of the former city home.

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—A Democratic drive was underway in the legislature today to kill off the bitterly contested Feunberg Law, banning Communists from public school jobs.

Senator Nathaniel T. Helman of Manhattan touched off the movement last night with a repeat bill, even as the state mapped its appeals from two State Supreme Court decisions declaring the measure unconstitutional.

The Republican-controlled legislature, which approved the bill last year, was expected to battle up the repeal measure, and leave the law's fate to the courts.

Two other Democratic lawmakers aimed repeal guns at another controversial measure—the labor-labor Coridon-Wadlin Law, which prohibits strikes by public employees under penalty of automatic dismissal.

G.O.P. leaders saw no chance for success here either. Last year the Democratic minority tried unsuccessfully to know out the law.

The bills to kill the Coridon-Wadlin Law were introduced by Senator Sidney A. Fine of Manhattan and Assemblyman Edward T. Galloway of the Bronx.

The proposals were among a flood of bills introduced as the 173rd legislative session started its first full work week.

Other proposals would:

1.—Permit farm machinery and vehicles to be moved over public highways without restriction (Senator Walter Van Wiggeren, R-Herkimer).

2.—Allow individuals to deduct federal income taxes in computing net income for state income tax purposes (Assemblyman Charles F. Stockmeister, D-Rochester).

3.—Appropriate $35,000 and create a division in the State Health Department to investigate causes of polio, mortality rates, prevention and cure. (Hielman).

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders readied program bills to provide a $200,000,000 state bond issue to help finance school construction in "needy" communities.

The move, announced Sunday by Paul E. Fitzpatrick, Democratic state chairman, was termed "naïve" yesterday by State Comptroller Frank C. Moore.

But an upstate Democrat upped the proposed ante. Assemblyman Sharon J. Maubs of Schoharie county said he would introduce a bill providing for a $800,000,000 bond issue for the same purpose. It was a Liberal party measure.

Traffic Is Normal

Lyons, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad restored traffic to normal early today after a crash of two freight trains near here blocked its four-track main line. The crash occurred shortly before midnight.

Both trains were westbound. No one was hurt.

40 and 8 Initiates 10 New Members At County Parley

Ten new members were initiated in Voiture Locale 381, Ulster County, of the American Legion's 40 and 8 Society in a meeting Sunday at the Hotel Shanley, Nanapanoch. About 65 voyageurs were present.

The new members were Clarence D. Conker, Donald Keator, Frederick R. Van Keuren, of Ellenville Post 111; William H. Jordan, John H. Lowe and Leonard Miller, Kingston Post 150; Henry M. Cameron, Reupen Gullian, Irving P. Maurer and Russell J. Maurer of Esopus Post 1298.

Cherniot National J. Chris Schue of White Plains addressed the meeting, asking all voyageurs to assist their American Legion posts in soliciting toys for children of war-stricken Europe. The toys should be sturdy and unbreakable, he said. No war-like or electrically driven toys should be included. Cowboy outfits are desired, he said.

Toys are to be collected from the entire communities, not only from Legion families. Local American Legion posts will pack the toys in boxes for overseas shipment and send them by prepaid express or freight to the American Legion, Pier 38, South Philadelphia, Pa. Shipment overseas at no cost to the Legion has been arranged.

Distribution in Europe will be handled by CARE, which has an efficient organization in most European countries.

If the child donating the toy will attach his or her name and address to the toy, a thank-you message will be sent from the European child receiving it, Schue said.

Grand Chef de Train Walter J. Miller of Kingston, state membership chairman, thanked Chef de Train James G. Connelly, local membership chairman, and his committee for doing "such an outstanding job in securing such a large membership to date."

Connelly, in his reply, said his committee expects to reach its membership quota within the next few days.

Grand Medicin Passe Dr. Harry M. Biffar of Whitestone, L. I., president Medicin of Voiture Locale 58, Queens county, gave the new voyageurs their physical examinations. The doctor impressed upon the new voyageurs the necessity of continuing to keep in good physical condition to help carry on the activities of the Voiture.

Grand Chef de Gare Passe Andrew Murphy, Jr., urged all voyageurs to assist the local American Legion posts in all activities.

Chef de Gare Thomas Bohan stressed the need for every Legionnaire to take an active part in the Legion Americanism program. He thanked all chairmen and committees, and all voyageurs for their assistance in making the Promenade and initiation a success.

The actual initiation ceremonies were conducted by Chef de Gare John Ludlow and his committee. Following the ceremonies, a roast beef dinner was served. The dinner was arranged by Chef de Gare Passe Earl Haley and his committee.

Attorneys Arrange

Bergman Settlement

Hollywood, Jan. 10 (AP)—Attorneys for Ingrid Bergman and her husband have worked out "a basis of what we feel is a fair and equitable property settlement."

The actress' lawyer, Greg Bautzer, made this statement yesterday upon returning from a New York conference with Lawrence Brinn, attorney for Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Miss Bergman's husband.

However, Bautzer added that until the proposed settlement is approved by Dr. Lindstrom and Miss Bergman, "no agreement has been reached."

If approved, a property settlement is said to be the first legal step toward a divorce. Dr. Lindstrom, who is here, has refused to comment about his wife's plans to marry Roberto Rossellini, Italian film director. The actress is in Italy.

More Rain Falls Over Flood Areas

(By The Associated Press)

More rain fell today over parts of the flood-stricken areas of Illinois and Indiana. Rescue crews worked to halt further breaks in levees along rampaging rivers and streams.

Strong winds prevailed throughout most of the flood region, creating a new hazard. Weather bureau officials said the high winds would make "heavy seas" of water in the lowlands. But temperatures were mild, bringing a measure of relief to the hundreds of persons who have been forced to flee from their homes.

Damage to crops and property mounted as waters spilled over thousands of acres of rich farmlands. The critical situation at Vincennes, Ind., appeared somewhat eased as the rain-swollen

Wabash river receded slowly during the night. Army engineers, directing sandbagging operations on the weakened levees for two days, expressed the belief the worst of the flood was over.

Meanwhile, a cold wave, with winds up to 50 miles an hour, moved across Montana, the eastern Dakotas and Minnesota. The strong winds whipped snow into huge drifts in some areas of the cold belt. At Wilmar, Minn., visibility was zero as 50-mile-an-hour winds whirled snow. The mercury hit zero and colder readings were forecast.

Rain fell over areas from central Pennsylvania to the north Atlantic coast and there were thunderstorms from Arkansas to Kentucky. Fair weather was reported in the South Atlantic States, the Rocky mountain region and the far southwest. Rain fell in parts of Washington, Oregon and northern California.

The drone bee dies soon after the wedding night.

To Elect Members

Moscow, Jan. 10 (AP)—Russia's millions of voters will elect members of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., the nation's two-house Parliament, March 12. The announcement last night said Prime Minister Stalin is expected to be a candidate again in the Stalin district of Moscow and will take an active personal part in the campaign.
